

Total Clinical Services

Ora offers a full suite of development services along every step of the development pathway. Our consulting and capital services will help you better identify optimal target indications, establish market evaluations, and determine capital needs. Our formulation, preclinical, and clinical trial services encompass full project management support, consultation with formulation experts, a variety of disease and efficacy models, and complete study management, study conduct, and support for phase 1-4 trials.

Our in-house regulatory writing team is on hand to compose filings for pre-IND/pre-IDE and IND/IDE meetings as well as FDA meeting requests, and our medical communications team has years of experience writing abstracts, posters, scientific papers, and trade publication messaging.
